WANTS OLLIE TO STAY

In Lower House—Is Absolutely Silent On His Position In The Lorimer Case.

Frankfort, April 5.—United States Senator Thomas H. Paynter tonight gave out an address to Democrats of Kentucky declaring himself a candidate for another term, the nomination to be decided at the state wide primary, July 1st. In his statement Senator Paynter says he feels that he should not ask for another term of office so long as before his present term is to expire, but that under rules of the Democratic state executive committee he is so compelled to do.

He is just now entering upon the last half of his term. Senator Paynter does not attempt to review his senatorial record or to outline a platform except in a general way. He favors tariff revision for revenue only.

In reference to his candidacy as compared to that of Congressman Ollie James, Senator Paynter says by electing Mr. James senator, Kentucky would lose an excellent man in the lower house of congress as well as him in the upper and that is to the advantage of the state to retain experienced men in both branches.

LOSS TEN MILLION

Fire Makes Wreck of New York's Capitol—Great Structure Costing $25,000,000.

Albany, N. Y., March 29.—The loss by the terrible fire in New York's beautiful state capitol will run not much less than $10,000,000.

The entire west wing of the beautiful building was destroyed by fire and in this wing were stored almost priceless records, books and documents.

The famous million dollar stairway is also a complete ruin. The fire is believed to have been caused by an electric switch.

Eighty-eighth Anniversary.

Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, the "Sage of Glen Lily," celebrated the eighty-eighth anniversary of his birth last Saturday, April 1st, in the room in which he was born in Hart county. He was a hero in two wars, was governor of Kentucky, and a candidate for vice president on the Palmer-Buckner ticket; was a friend to General Grant and is the only living general of the war of the Rebellion. He is hale and hearty, has a beautiful young wife and son, the pride of his old age, who has just become an officer in the U. S. Army.

EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD.

Its Cost Will Be $12,000,000. Twelve Years Devoted to Its Construction.*

Rome, April 5.—Sunday with the dedication of the eighth wonder of the world, a gigantic statue of Victor Emmanuel, the Italian Washington, which has been under course of construction for the past twelve years and cost $12,000,000, Italy commenced a celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the Italian chamber's proclamation of the country as an independent kingdom, which will last during the entire year and open to the world exhibitions of art, science, agriculture and mechanics without a peer in the history of national expositions.

POLITICAL OPINIONS.

Shelbyville Record.

What good, tell us, someone, will be a nomination to Mr. McCreary that means the party's defeat in November?

Stanford Interior Journal.

Some of the professional politicians have persuaded Judge Reed, of Paducah, to get into the governor's race. He'll wish he had told them to "get behind me, satan," when the vote is counted.

Estill Herald.

Senator McCreary can easily be termed: "The artful dodger." He has remained on the fence on more questions of vital importance than any other politician in the state. His latest "straddle" when he left home the evening before the local option election and left the good people of Richmond to fight as best they could. His presence in Richmond on that day and a few words spoken by him in favor of local option would have votes for that cause. But not only did he remain silent, but he hiked to Louisville without even casting his vote. The day has passed when a candidate for a great office can carry water on both shoulders and Mr. McCreary will find it would have been policy for him to have let his position on the liquor question be known.

ADMINISTRATOR OF MISS MORRIS

Brings Suit Against The Tennessee Central Railroad For $25,000.

Suit has been filed in Montgomery county circuit court against the Tennessee Central railroad by Chas. Norris, administrator of Miss Fannie Morris' estate, for $25,000 damages for the girl's death, caused by the wreck on the T. C. at Adairville switch five weeks ago.

As will be remembered Miss Morris was a passenger on the train, enroute from her home near Dawson Springs to this place to visit relatives and meet her father whom she had never seen. When within sight of the place she expected to visit, the train was wrecked and her body was cremated in the fire that followed.

Mail Robber Arrested.

Henderson, Ky., April 4.—William Simmons, aged 19, was arrested here today at the instance of Postal Inspector Perkins, on the charge of robbing a government mail sack on October 14 last. Simmons, according to his confession, drove the transfer wagon which carried the mail from the railroad station to the post-office, and that while in transit through the city he cut the seams of the mail sack and abstracted registered packages therefrom as well as other packages.

One package contained $2,000 in cash and was being sent from Louisville to Salem, Ky. He took two other packages containing $5 each, and a watch fob, a signet ring and a corset cover. He stitched the sack up and delivered it to the city post-office, and the next day he left the city, visited several places in Indiana and on his return here was arrested. He will be tried in the Federal court at Owensboro.

Celebrating.

Monday, March 27th, was the twenty-first anniversary of the cyclone which struck the lower section of Crittenden county in 1890, inflicting great damage, and as if in celebration of that event, the wind blew fiercely all day.

Returns to Webster County.

Rev. J. D. Woodson, who has been Chaplain at the Eddyville penitentiary for the past nine years, has resigned the position and will return to his old home at Slaughtersville to reside. Just prior to receiving his appointment as chaplain of the Eddyville prison, Mr. Woodson represented Webster county one term in the legislature. He will be succeeded at Eddyville by Rev. J. W. Hatton, of Lexington. — Providence Enterprise.

STORMY START

Friends Hope Sea of Matrimony Will Prove Calmer Than Ohio River.

The first part of their wedding trip made from Smithland to Paducah this morning on the steamer Ohio, proved a thriller for Attorney and Mrs. Lal D. Threlkeld this morning, when their voyage threatened to end disastrously. Pitching and surging, the little packet was almost at the mercy of the wind and waves; but save for a deck washing she succeeded in landing safely at the wharf boat after a half hour's fight.

Miss Hattie Davis and Mr. Threlkeld were married at Smithland, their home, at 8:30 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Threlkeld is the pretty and attractive daughter of ex-County Judge James Davis, and a member of one of Livingston county's most prominent and influential families. Mr. Threlkeld is county attorney of Livingston, and well known in Paducah. They were accompanied to Paducah by Mr. Threlkeld's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Threlkeld, Mr. LaRue and Dr. Frank Bourne, of Paducah, who was best man at the ceremony. Attorney and Mrs. Threlkeld left at 11:25 o'clock over the Illinois Central for Louisville. They will make a ten days' trip to Chicago, Indianapolis, Lexington and other points and will return to Smithland to make their home. — Paducah Sun.

HAWTHORNE HILL

Memorial By Dead Editor's Associates and Friends In New York.

Mr. Hawthorne Hill, associate editor of The India Rubber World, died after a brief illness at his home in Brooklyn on the morning of February 2. A short reference to this sad event was included in our February issue which was just going to press. Mr. Hill's death came suddenly from an attack of pneumonia which in his somewhat weakened physical condition he was unable to withstand. He only left his office desk one week before his death, and was considered to be seriously ill for only 48 hours.

Mr. Hill was born April 13, 1857, on a farm in Crittenden County, Kentucky, near Marion, the county seat. He did not enter school until about the age of twelve, but having been well grounded at home previous to this time he had before this age become an omnivorous reader of books and newspapers and had contributed articles to the local papers. As a boy he subscribed to many papers and magazines and made an effort to secure, for inspection, a copy of every periodical of which he heard. Much of his time as a youth was spent in reading and writing and this with his remarkably retentive memory and close insight into details equipped him even before he reached his majority with a wonderfully varied and accurate fund of information. To this a continuance of the same painstaking and studious habits added year by year until in his days of maturity he became a veritable encyclopedia of Catarrh is Probably The Cause. Get Rid of The Cause.

If you have catarrh and have constant ringing noises in your ears look into the matter at once.

When catarrh gets to the ears partial deafness follows. If you have ringing noises in your ears go to Haynes & Taylor today and get a HYOMEI outfit and drive out catarrh. O mother dear, good night."

Back To Nature.

A hen is not supposed to have much common sense or tact, yet every time she lays an egg she cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot of intellect to show, but none the less most roosters have, enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, has a persistent way of letting people know he's around, by his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, bulls bellow and cows moo, and watch-dogs bark and ganders quack and doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squawks; pigs squeal and robins sing, and even serpents know enough to hiss before they sting.

But Man, the greatest masterpiece that Nature could devise, will often stop and hesitate before he'll AD VER TISE!

Held At Blackford.

On Wednesday, March 8th, there was assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Brantley in Blackford, members and relatives of the Brantley and Orr families, numbering more than thirty people.

Those gathered there made the visit as a surprise party, it being the seventy-second birthday of Mrs. Ibbie Brantley, who is a sister of the late J. W. Orr, of this city, Dr. E. A. Orr, of Caldwell county, and Kelly Orr, of Crittenden county.

This reunion brings to mind a rather unusual relationship existing among the Orr and Brantley families, which are two of the pioneer families of this section of Kentucky, both having located here, the Orr family in Crittenden county, and the Brantley family in Crittenden and Webster counties, in the early part of the last century.

There were four intermarriages in the two families, and yet there was no marriage of blood relations.

The two original families were those of Joshua Orr and James Brantley, the descendants of the latter, and the sons and daughters of William and Jesse, being the ones who married into the Orr family.

First L. D. Brantley, son of William Brantley, married Margaret Orr; next, Kelly Orr married Laura Brantley, daughter of Jesse Brantley; then followed the marriage of John W. Orr and Nellie Brantley, brother and sister of Kelly and Laura, and then to even up the score, Ben Brantley and Ibbie Orr were married, which made the four weddings in the two families.

Those present at the birthday reunion celebration were Mrs. J. W. Orr, Miss Katie Orr, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Orr, John Thomas, wife and son, Mrs. Rich Corbett, Providence; Mrs. John B. Easley, Al Easley and son, Marion; Miss Georgia Kuykendall, Clay, Mrs. John Stuart and son, Piney; Mrs. Margaret Pickens, Mrs. O. S. Travis and daughters, John R. Travis, Piney, and Mrs. Dolly Walker, Marion.

Together with those mentioned above Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Brantley represent four generations of both the Orr and Brantley families.

The survivors of the older generations of the two families are as follows: Dr. E. A. Orr, age 78; Kelly Orr, age 74; Mrs. Ibbie Brantley, 72, sons and daughter of Joshua Orr, and Mrs. Bernice Gilbert, 85, Thomas Brantley, Daniel Brantley, B. P. Brantley, Mrs. Laura Orr, Mrs. Rebecca Babb, sons and daughters of Jesse Brantley.

Mares from a distance kept reasonable. My motto is "No Colt No Pay."

Yours to Please.

Again we rise to remark that the man who gets mad at what the newspapers say about him should return thanks three times a day for what the newspapers know about him and suppress. — Maysville Leader.

One of the most entertaining lecturers who has visited our city was here Monday evening at the auditorium—Louis J. Beauchamp—a large audience greeted him and enjoyed his presence.

The real friend of a newspaper is the man who stops the reporter on the street and gives him any little bit of local news that he thinks might be of interest to the readers of the paper. Remember that a newspaper man never gets in too great a hurry to stop and jot down a news item, and remember that he don't think you are seeking notoriety when you tell him of a personal concerning you or your family.

Will some one through the "Record-Press," tell why it is that the Fire Insurance rates in Kentucky are so enormously high as compared with the rates in other states. While the Commissioner's report for Kentucky shows that during the years of 1909 and 1910, the Fire Insurance Companies doing business in Kentucky collected in premiums

$9,380,944 and paid out in losses only $4,555,892 showing a profit of $4,825,052. Will some one tell us why and enlighten a subscriber.

STURGIS YOUTH

Instantly Killed

By Electric Wire.

At 7 o'clock this morning Will Kuykendall, a promising and popular employe of the Electric Light Co., was instantly killed by contact with two live electric wires while he and Otis Hoover were at work in the attic wiring the house recently bought by Geo. B. Simpson in Main Street.

Young Kuykendall had grasped the two wires to see whether the current, the ordinary house light voltage of 110 was on, not being aware that by mistake he and Hoover had connected the wires with the heavy street light current of 2200 power. The shock was like a lightning stroke and he was probably dead the instant it struck him, and it required a strong blow on the wires with a club to release his hands from the deadly current.

Physicians were summoned, but he was past human aid, and the body was removed to the home of his stricken mother, Mrs. Sallie Kuykendall, in Washington street.

Young Kuykendall was twenty-one years of age and besides his mother leaves two brothers and three sisters.

He had many friends and the whole community was shocked at his sudden and horrible death.

U. S. A. PRESBYTERY

Various Churches Well Represented And Interesting Sessions Were Held.

A splendid body of Christian men and women are within our gates in attendance at the Presbytery of Princeton of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., which convened here Tuesday evening. The churches in this Presbytery are well represented and the crowd in attendance is said to be unusually large. Rev. A. J. Thomson, of Kuttawa, was chosen moderator.

The following ministers are present: J. W. Hudiburg, Mayfield; E. B. Landis, Paducah; A. J. Thomson, Kuttawa; R. H. Anthony, Princeton; J. N. Andre, Fredonia; D. M. Harrison, Madisonville; W. M. White, Providence; S. G. McCluny, Osceola, Mo.; W. J. Darby, D. D., Evansville, Ind.

The various churches are represented by the following delegates: J. J. Sherrill, Mayfield; Jno. G. Miller, Paducah; H. M. Barnes, Water Valley; A. M. Wallis, Hopkinsville; W. H. Jones, Princeton; C. A. Wilson, Bethlehem; J. E. Crider, Fredonia; S. H. Matthews, Frances, J. E. Baird, Crayne; C. R. Newcom, Marion; J. T. Alexander, Madisonville; W. L. Baker, Providence; L. B. Nichols, Shiloh; John E. Nunn, Sturgis.

The Ladies Presbyterian Missionary Society have a splendid representation—twenty-six in all. The ladies' meetings have been held at the Baptist church, have been well attended and full of enthusiasm. Quite a number of visitors have been attending these meetings.

Messrs. C. T. Wallace, Kenneth Davis and Harry Cully represented the Christian Endeavor from Sturgis; J. McCaslin, D. W. Deboe, W. H. Ordway and wife, from Crayne, and there were others from various churches.

The commissioners to the next General Assembly are Rev. D. M. Harrison, of Madisonville, and Hon. John G. Miller, of Paducah. W. L. Baker, Jr., of this city, was nominated to represent the General Assembly at Atlanta City, and Mr. Miller was elected by a majority of only one vote over Mr. Baker, although Mr. Miller is a prominent lawyer of Paducah and is well known all over the Presbytery, while Mr. Baker, with his extreme modesty, is known to only a few of the churches.

The next meeting of Presbytery will held at Bethlehem church, at Crider, Caldwell Co. The ladies representing the Women's Missionary Societies were Mrs. Ashley Holoman, president of the Presbyterian Society, Mrs. J. T. Alexander and Mrs. D. M. Harrison, from Madisonville; Mrs. A. M. Wallis, Mrs. Lander, Misses Bettie Stevenson and Kelly, from Hopkinsville, Mrs. H. B. Barnes, from Water Valley; Miss Bessie Hovenden, from Paducah; Mrs. J. N. Andre, of Fredonia; Mrs. Castleberry, of Princeton; Miss Grace Deboe, of Crayne; Misses Sallie Crider and Elvie Hill, of Chapel Hill; Mrs.

J. F. Price, of Marion; Mrs. Belle Price, of Lisman; Mrs. T. M. Hurst and H. A. Rife, of Sturgis; Masters J. T. Alexander, of Madisonville, and H. A. Rife, of Sturgis, entertained the ladies' meetings with solos.

Mrs. D. F. Dieflenderfer, of New York City, Secretary of the Board of Missions, delivered an interesting address Wednesday night on the subject of Mormonism and its relation to our Christian and national life. At this meeting Mrs. J. T. Alexander and sister, Miss Nellie Guess, charmed the audience with a beautiful song.

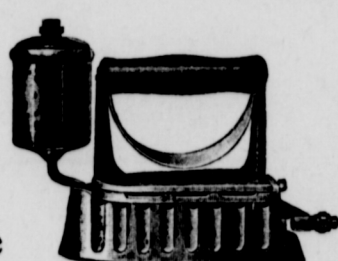

There are quite a number of visitors in attendance whose names the Enterprise failed to get. The Presbytery will close tonight with a sermon by Rev. R. H. Anthony, of Princeton—Providence Enterprise.

Class Social And Banquet.

On Friday night last the Men's Class, conducted under the auspices of Sunday School of the Methodist church by Mr. C. S. Nunn, assisted by Mr. John A. Moore, held a "Social," following a Sumptuous Banquet which was served in the Dining Room of the New Marion Hotel.

After the cloth had been removed the Toastmaster explained the cause of absence of several speakers, and then called upon Dr. Mather, Pastor of the church, who delivered an address of some length upon the advantages of church fraternity, in its social, intellectual, and moral aspects, calling up as illustrations many of the episodes connected with his experience in church life and organization. Dr. Mather's reminiscences were greatly enjoyed, as were also the speeches and "remarks" of others who were present, and the music of the Methodist Orchestra contributed largely to the enjoyment of the evening.

The banquet table was "a thing of beauty and a joy" as long as the good things to eat were brought in.

The menu was well gotten up and consisted of the following delicacies, celery, pickles, crackers, oysters, soup, chicken with dressing, cold ham, cranberry sauce, hot rolls, asparagus salad with French dressing, pineapple sherbert, cake, fruits, nuts, tea, coffee, and milk.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Metz, Mr. and Mrs. Ollie Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Obenchain, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fiscal Court.

The Fiscal Court met in regular session Tuesday and in looking after the county's business methods, decided to create a new office—a county treasurer and it fixed his salary at $300.00 per annum. Under the law the sheriff must settle with the treasurer every sixty days and it is argued by those who advocated the above change, that the county will save largely more in interest than the salary named and it will soon put the county on a cash basis.

WORK MEANS SUCCESS.

If you would succeed—work. There is no word in the English language which has more vital meaning and holds more of promise than that little word "work."

Be content to do what you know how to do. Keep at it until you can do that particular work better than anyone else can do it. Then you are a master.

Whether your business is making sausages, or painting pictures, is of no importance. People succeed in both. Are you making the best sausages that can be made, or painting the pictures that most please?—that is the real question.

Develop the talent that is yours to the utmost and then seek constantly to make it most effective.

Canova could cut a pat of butter into a perfect lion. But a lion in butter is valueless. He learned to cut lions in marble, and became the master sculptor of his age. The same Canova was in them both, but the difference between butter and lasting marble is the difference between obscurity and fame.

The amount of money received does not always indicate the real worth of a man's work. There are other rewards more satisfying. The chief pastry cook in a certain big hotel gets a larger salary than the president of Harvard college.

It does not follow that pies are of more value than educational influence. But it does show that even the man who can do nothing better than make pies, but makes them better than anybody else, does not need to take a back seat.

When a medicine should be given to young children it must be pleasant to take. It has no superior for colds, croup and whooping cough. For sale by all dealers.

ADVICE TO BOYS.

Replying to a recent inquiry Mr. Bryan said:

There is no new advice to give boys, and there are no new boys to advise. The boy is the same that he has been and is not likely to change much in the years to come. His impulses are the same that they were centuries ago; the dangers that confront him confronted his father and grandfather when they were boys. If I were suggesting a warning to boys I would not suggest a better one than embodied in the text, "The wages of sin is death." That is the law and it cannot be repealed. The honest, truthful, industrious boy will succeed in proportion to his intelligence, but no intelligence can make up for lack of honesty, truthfulness or industry—Especially as it is impossible to substitute anything for honesty and truthfulness. Laziness will limit one's accomplishments whatever his other good qualities may be, but he can outgrow laziness just as he can lack of education or intelligence, but it is much more difficult to outgrow a lack of honesty or truthfulness.

Possibly I ought to suggest that patience is a virtue which should be added to the ones already mentioned. Impatience has led many young men to ruin; they have not been willing to wait for a fortune to come through legitimate accumulation, and through their haste to get rich they have fallen. The boy should "learn to labor and to wait." Character is built slowly, but it can be lost in a day. The farmer must wait from seed time until the harvest, however long it may seem, before he can gather his crop, and so the boy must be willing to plant in springtime of life for the harvest that he will gather when he is grown.—The Commoner.

When you patronize me you don't have to hunt a new launderer every week. I am here to stay, and my work is guaranteed the best. Roy Gilbert, Agt.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH

Roman Catholics Total 14,618,761.

The Official Church Directory Fixes Figures for the United States.

KENTUCKY HOLDS 147,607. Milwaukee, Wis., April 3.—There are at present 14,618,761 Roman Catholics in the United States, according to the 1911 Wiltzius Official Catholic Directory, which is now in press. The figure given does not include the Catholics in the Philippines, Porto Rico or Hawaiian Islands, for these were added the number of Roman Catholics under the Stars and Stripes would be nearly 23,000,000.

Although the United States religious census of 1906 credits the Roman Catholic faith with only 12,079,142, the Wiltzius figure is not exaggerated, as the Census Bureau deducted 15 per cent of its total count for children, counting only communicants.

According to the directory there are in the United States 17,084 Catholic priests and 13,461 churches. Of the number 9,017 have resident pastors. Catholics also control 1,972 parochial schools with an attendance of 1,270,131. In addition to this there are 225 colleges for boys and 606 academies for girls, and eighty-two ecclesiastical seminaries.

According to the Wiltzius publication, the States of the Union having the largest number of Catholics are:

New York, 2,758,171; Pennsylvania, 1,527,230; Illinois, 1,446,400; Massachusetts, 1,380,021; Ohio, 694,721; Louisiana, 557,431; Wisconsin, 540,050; Michigan, 535,107; New Jersey, 495,000; Missouri, 452,703; Minnesota, 441,081; California, 391,500; Connecticut, 378,831; Texas, 295,017; Maryland, 260,000; Kentucky, 147,607; Indiana, 223,078.

These figures are regarded as official in Catholic circles as the information is furnished direct from the various Catholic chancery offices.

On the account of not being prepared to take care of the large amount of eggs that I am now getting from my poultry which is about twelve hundred to fifteen hundred eggs monthly, and I am only prepared to take care of five hundred every twenty one days, in my incubators, so, I concluded to offer these eggs from High Class Birds, to parties near home rather than to advertise them in papers out of my own State at a remarkably low price of seventy-five cents per setting of fifteen, delivered at the following places in Crittenden and Livingston counties.

MARION, TOLU, SHERIDAN, SHADY GROVE, SALEM, CARRSVILLE, SMITHLAND, PINKNEYVILLE, LOLA AND HAMPTON.

The above price is hardly one half of what these eggs would cost you should you purchase them from poultry people in other states who have the full blood, and if I was prepared to take care of them all, not a penny less than one dollar and twenty-five cents would buy them. I would be pleased to have any one call and investigate my stock, if they so desire to see for themselves whether I have what I claim in this line or not. Write or Call.

THE LATE HAWTHORNE HILL.

varied and servicable information.

Mr. Hill's first employment away from home was as a teacher in the public schools of his native county. After one term as a teacher he moved—being then about 21 years old—to Maysville, Kentucky, where he had secured employment upon the local paper. While serving in this capacity he acted as correspondent to various daily newspapers in Cincinnati, Ohio, Louisville, Kentucky, and other cities. His work soon attracted the attention of the metropolitan editors and in the spring of 1879 Mr. Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, offered him the position of "Kentucky State News Editor." In this position Mr. Hill soon became one of the best known newspaper men in Kentucky.

After serving several years on the Courier-Journal he resigned his position to become city editor of the Louisville Commercial. He was soon advanced to managing editor of that paper and served in that capacity until he decided in 1887 to try his fortunes in New York. His first connection in the metropolis was with the New York World, where he served in various capacities until 1889, when, on account of an unsatisfactory condition of health, he decided to give up the strenuous daily work and cast in his lot with trade journalism. He became associated with The India Rubber World at its inception. Mr. Hill remained with these same interests when later on they founded Hardware and also when The Engineering Magazine was established. When Hardware was sold Mr. Hill severed his connection with this firm to become editor of that paper. After acting in this capacity for about a year Mr. Hill again joined the editorial staff of The India Rubber World and with the exception of a period of about fourteen months in 1894-5, when a protracted period of illness compelled him to give up editorial work, he has been continuously identified with this paper. When the paper was purchased by Mr. Henry C. Pearson, in the spring of 1900, Mr. Hill became identified with it as associate editor, the position he occupied until his death.

In October, 1886, Mr. Hill married Miss Lillian Sawyer, of Frankfort, Kentucky, who survives him. He also leaves twin boys nineteen years old and a daughter of twelve. The interment was in Greenwood Cemetery.

More than twenty years of intimate association with Mr. Hill only served to intensify the impression of his unusual force and capacity. Possessed of a marvelous memory, coupled with a love of learning for learning's sake, his store of knowledge was encyclopaedic. His long training in every department of daily newspaper work, together with a natural genius for it, gave to his writings not only an orderly, logical arrangement, but rare dignity and polish. Possessed of a passion for exactitude, no labor was too great if it resulted in the verification or illumination of facts.

For breadth of view, sense of proportion and instant appreciation of news values, he ranked with the great editors of the day. Only a singular distaste for the trammels and disciplines incident to great publications kept him from a career in which his talents would have been broadly recognized.

As a conversationalist he held one's attention by his inexhaustible fund of information and wealth of illustration. Always courteous, generous to a fault, intensely patriotic, not in a local but a truly American sense, he held the esteem of all, while those who were able to penetrate the most bashful reserve with which he enshrouded his inner self, found a soul of rare sweetness and strength.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE CASE OF LEE VIRGINIA AND ROSS. LEE and Ross stood in silence on the Redfield veranda. There was no moon, and the mountains rose darkly, a sheer wall at the end of the garden, their tops cutting into the starry sky with a dull edge, over which a dim white cone peered.

"That snow peak is Wolftooth and thirty miles from here and at the head of my 'beat,'" said the ranger after a pause as they leaned against the railing and looked away to the south. "I go up that ridge which you see faintly at the left of the main canyon and through that deep notch which is above timber line."

The girl's eyes widened with awe of the big, silent, dark world he indicated. "Aren't you afraid to start out on such a trip alone—I mean, don't you dread it?"

"I'll be sorry to start back, yes, but not because of the dark. I've enjoyed my visit here so much it will be hard to say good night."

"It seems strange to me that you should prefer this wild country to England."

"Do you like the east better than the west?"

"In some ways; but, then, you see, I was born out here."

"So was I—I mean to say I was regenerated out here. The truth is I was a good deal of a scapegrace when I left England. I was always for hunting and horses, and naturally I came directly to the wild west country, and here I've been ever since. I've had my turn at each phase of it—cowpuncher, soldier, rough rider and finally forest ranger. I reckon I've found my job at last."

"Do you like it so much?"

"At the present time I am perfectly contented. I'm associated now with a country that will never yield to the plow. Yes, I like my work. I love the forests and the streams. I wish I might show them to you. You don't know how beautiful they are. The most beautiful parks in the world are commonplace to what I can show you. My only sorrow is to think of them given over to the sawmill. Perhaps you and your mother will come up some time and let me show you my lakes and streams. There are waters so lovely they make the heart ache. Hugh is planning to come up soon; perhaps you and Mrs. Redfield will come with him."

"Ed like it above everything," she responded fervently. Then her voice changed. "But all depends on my mother's health."

It hurt him to hear her call Eliza Wetherford mother. He wanted to forget her origin for the moment. He was not in love with her—far from it! But she was so alluring, and the proprietress of the Wetherford House was not nice, and that made one doubt the daughter.

She broke the silence. "It seems dreadfully dark and mysterious up there," she indicated his path.

"It isn't as bad as it looks. There is a good trail, and my pony knows it as well as I do. I enjoy riding by night."

"But there are bears and other wild things, are there not?"

"Not as much as I wish there were."

"Why do you say that?"

"I hate to see all the wild life killed off. Some day all these forests will have game refuges like the Yellowstone National park. They are coming each year to have greater and greater value to the people of the plains. They are playgrounds, like the Alps. If I should ever settle down to a home it would be in a canyon like this, with a great peak at my front door."

"It is beautiful," the girl said in the tone of sadness with which we confront the perfect night, the perfect flower, the flawless landscape. "It is both grand and peaceful."

This tone of sadness pleased him. It showed her depth of perception, and he reflected that she had not uttered a vacuous or silly phrase since their first meeting. "She is capable of great development," he thought. Aloud he said: "You are a strange mingling of east and west. Do you realize it?"

"In what way?" she asked, feeling something ardent in his tone.

"You typify to me at this moment this whole state. You fill me with enthusiasm for its future. Here you are, derived from the lawless west, yet taking on the culture and restraint of the east so readily that you seem not in the least related to—"

He checked himself at this point, and she said, "My mother is not as rough as she seems, Mr. Cavanagh."

"She must be more of the woman than appears or she could not have borne such a daughter. But do you feel your relationship to her? Tell me honestly, for you interest me."

"I do—at first, but I do now. I begin to understand her, and, besides, I feel myself certain things that are in her, though I think I am more like the Wetherfords. My father's family home was in Maryland."

Ross could have talked on all night, so alluring was the girl's dimly seen yet warmly felt figure at his side, but a sense of danger and a knowledge that he should be riding led him at last to say: "It is getting chill. We must go in, but before we do so let me say how much I've enjoyed seeing you again. I hope the doctor will make favorable report on your mother's case. You'll write me the result of the examination, won't you?"

Forest

"If you wish me to."

"I shall be most anxious to know."

They were standing very near to each other at the moment, and the ranger, made very sensitive to woman's charm by his lonely life, shook with newly created love of her. A suspicion, a hope, that beneath her cultivated manner lay the passionate nature of her mother gave an added force to his desire. He was sorely tempted to touch her, to test her, but her sweet voice, a little sad and perfectly unconscious of evil, calmed him. She said:

"I hope to persuade my mother to leave the Forks. All the best people there are against us. Some of them have been very cruel to her and to me, and, besides, I despise and fear the men who come to our table."

"You must not exchange words with them," he all but commanded. "Be aware of Gregg; he is a vile lot. Do not trust him for an instant. Do not permit any of those loafers to talk with you, for if you do they will go away to defame you. I know them. They are unspeakably vile. It makes me angry to think that Gregg and his like have the right to speak to you every day, while I can see you only at long intervals. I wish my station were not so far away. But I'll ride down as often as my duties will permit, and you must let me know how things go. And if any of those fellows persecute you, you'll tell me, won't you? I wish you'd look upon me as your big brother. Will you do that?" His voice entreated, and as she remained silent he continued: "Roaring Fork is one of the worst towns in the state, and a girl like you needs some one as a protector. I don't know just how to put it so that you will not misunderstand me, but, you see, I protect the forest, the streams and the game. I help the settler in time of trouble, I am a kind of all round big brother to everybody who needs help in the forest. In fact, I'm paid for protecting things that can't protect themselves, and so—here he tried to lend his voice the accent of humor—"why shouldn't I be the protector of a girl like you, alone—worse than alone—in this little town?"

She remained dumb at one or two points where he clearly hoped for a word, and she was unable to thank him when he had finished. In this silence a curious constriction came into his throat. It was almost as if he had put his passion into definite words, and as the light fell upon her he perceived that her bosom was heaving with deep emotion.

"I am lonely," she faltered out at last—"horribly lonely. And I know how how people feel toward my mother, and it hurts me—it all hurts me. But I'm going to stay and help her." She paused to recover her voice. "And you do seem different. I—I trust you!"

"I'm glad you understand me, and you will let me know if I can help you, won't you?"

"Yes," she answered simply.

"Good night," he said, extending his hand.

She placed her palm to his quite frankly, but the touch of it made further speech at the moment impossible.

They went in with such telltale faces that even Redfield wondered what had passed between them.

Excusing himself almost at once, Cavanagh left the room, and when he looked in a few moments later he was clothed in the ranger's dusty green uniform, booted and spurred for his long, hard ride. Mrs. Redfield followed him into the hall and out on the doorstep to say: "Ross, you must be careful. This girl is very alluring in herself, but her mother, you know, is impossible."

"You're needlessly alarmed, as usual," he smilingly replied. "She interests me, that's patent. But beyond that, why, nonsense! Good night."

Nevertheless, despite his protestations, he went away up the trail with his mind so filled with Lee Virginia's appealing face and form that he would certainly have ridden over a precipice had it not been for his experienced pony, which had fortunately but one aim, and that was to cross the range safely and to reach the home pasture at the earliest moment.

Left alone, Lee Virginia thought over her past. She was not entirely without experience as regards respectful courtship. Her life in the east had brought her to know a number of attractive lads and a few men, but none of these had become more than a good companion or friend, and, though she wrote to one or two of these youths letters of the utmost friendliness, there was no passion in them, and she felt as yet the sting of nothing more intense in her liking for Cavanagh. But he meant more to her now that she was lonely and beleaguered.

That he had ridden all that long, rough way merely to see her she was not vain enough to believe, but she had nevertheless something of every woman's secret belief in her individual charm. Cavanagh had shown a dattering interest in her, and his wish to be her protector filled her with joy and confidence.

She heard a good deal more about this particular forest ranger next morning at breakfast. "He is throwing himself away," Mrs. Redfield passionately declared. "Think of a man of Ross' refinement living in a mountain shack miles from anybody, watching poachers, marking trees and cooking his own food! It's a shameful waste of genius."

"That's as you look at it, my dear," responded Redfield. "Ross is the guardian of an immense treasure chest which belongs to the nation. Furthermore, he is quite certain, as I am, that this forest service is the policy of the future and that it offers fine chances for promotion, and then, finally, he likes it."

THE TOUCH OF IT MADE FURTHER SPEECH IMPOSSIBLE.

"That is all well enough for a young man, but Ross is at least thirty-five and should be thinking of settling down. I can't understand his point of view."

"My dear, you have never seen the procession of the seasons from such a point of view as that which he enjoys."

"No, and I do not care to. It is quite lonely enough for me right here."

Redfield looked at Lee with comic blankness. "Mrs. Redfield is hopelessly urban. As the wife of a forest supervisor she cares more for pavements and tramcars than for the most splendid mountain park."

"I most certainly do," his wife vigorously agreed, "and if I had my way we should be living in London."

"Listen to that! She's ten times more English than Mrs. Enderby."

"I'm not, but I long for the civilized instead of the wild. I like comfort and society."

"So do I," returned he.

"Yes, the comfort of an easy chair on the porch and the society of your forest rangers. This ranch life is all very well for a summer outing, but to be tied down here all the year round is to be denied one's birthright as a modern."

All this more or less cheerful complaint expressed the minds of many others who live amid these superb scenes. When autumn comes, when the sky is gray and the peaks are hid in mist, they long for the music, the lights, the comfort of the city. But when the April sun begins to go down in a smother of crimson and flame and the mountains loom with epic dignity, or when at dawn the air is like some divine flood descending from the unstained mysterious heights, then the dweller, in the foothills cries out: "How fortunate we are! Here are health and happiness! Here poverty is unknown!"

Mrs. Redfield was becoming more and more interested in Virginia, who had not merely the malodorous reputation of her mother to contend with, but the memory of a traitorous sire to live down, and when the girl went to her room to pack her bag the wife turned to her husband and said:

"Ross is terribly smitten with her."

Redfield coughed uneasily. "I hope not. Of course he admires her, as any man must. She's physically attractive, very attractive, and, besides, Ross is as susceptible as a cowpuncher. He was deeply impressed the first time he saw her; I could see that."

"I didn't like his going out on the veranda with her last night," continued Mrs. Redfield, "and when they came in her eyes and color indicated that he'd been saying something exciting to her. Hugh, Ross Cavanagh must not get involved with that girl. It's your duty as his superior to warn him."

"He's fully grown, my dear, and a bit dictatorial on his own part. I'm a trifle timid about cutting in on his private affairs."

"Then I'll do it. Marriage with a girl like that is out of the question. Think what his sisters would say!"

Redfield smiled a bit satirically. "To the outsider a forest ranger at $900 a year and find himself and horses is not what you may call a brilliant catch."

"Oh, well, the outsider is no judge! Ross Cavanagh is a gentleman, and, besides, he's sure to be promoted. I acknowledge the girl's charms, and I don't understand it. When I think of her objectively as Lize Wetherford's girl I wonder at her being in my house. When I see her I want her to stay with me. I want to hug her."

"Perhaps we've been unjust to Lize all along," suggested Redfield. "She has remained faithful to Ed Wetherford's memory all these years—that is conceded. Doesn't that argue some unusual quality? How many women do we know who are capable of such loyalty? Come! now! Lize is a rough piece of goods, I'll admit, and her lunch counter was a public nuisance, but she had the courage to send her girl away to be educated, denying herself the joy of seeing her develop by her side. We mustn't permit our prejudices to run away with us."

The girl's return put a stop to the discussion, which could end in nothing but confusion anyway.

GO TO THE RESCUE

Don't Wait Till It's Too Late—Follow The Example of a Marion Citizen.

Rescue the aching back. If it keeps on aching, trouble comes. Backache is kidney ache.

If you neglect the kidneys' warning. Look out for urinary trouble—dropsy. This Marion citizen will show you how to go to the rescue.

J. O. Taber, Marion, Ky., says: "I was afflicted with kidney trouble for about six years. The pains in my back were severe at times and when I was stooping or lifting, sharp twinges passed through my loins. My back always ached more intensely at night and in the morning I felt very lame. I tired easily, was languid and nervous and had headaches. The kidney secretions also passed too frequently and caused me annoyance. I took the contents of one and a half boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Haynes & Taylor's drug store and they rid me of every symptom of my trouble. I am now in good health."

Free Remedy For Weak Bowels

There are two forms of bodily cleanliness, the external and the internal. The one is for your pride in yourself; the other for your life and health. Both are important, but of vastly more importance in the long run is the internal cleanliness.

This is one point that all should watch about their body—the cleanliness of the bowels. Keep them clean and free from obstructions. To do this you must have one or two movements of the bowels each twenty-four hours. If your system does not do this naturally, in the process of eating and drinking, then you must obtain aid of some kind. After finding out that cathartics, salts and such things relieve you for a day, but bind you up worse than ever the next day, then try a simpler and more natural remedy like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

For the skeptical the best way to begin is to send your name and address to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle. Use it as directed and if it convinces you that a brief continuance of its use will relieve you permanently—that it will train the stomach and bowels muscles to again work naturally at certain hours—then buy it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as so many others are doing. They began with a sample bottle, then bought a fifty cent bottle, and now, fully convinced of its merits, they buy the one dollar family size. All the members of the family can use it down to the very youngest.

A brief use of this grand laxative tonic will cure constipation in its worst form, indigestion, liver trouble, sick headache, sour stomach and such ailments and keep you in continuous good health at a very small cost. Such is the expert opinion of many families like that of Mrs. Oscar Fleener, Unionville, Ind. J. P. Daniel, Sharon, Tex., and hundreds of others that could be named.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address is Dr. W. R. Caldwell, R. 600 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

FOUND POT OF GOLD

Lyon County Youth Plows It Up—
Said To Have Contained
$4,000.00.

A story which smacks considerably of the problematic comes from near Dycusburg, over the bridge in Lyon county. The story runs thus: Charlie Peek, son of Curran Peek, had a dream in which he was the finder of a pot of gold in a field where he was plowing. An indian appeared at his side just as he turned over the rotten stump and exposed the pot full of shining gold and forbid him taking but one $20.00 gold piece. The indian directed him where to bury the remainder and told him before disappearing, that the money was put there by himself 77 years ago and that ten years afterward the indian died without revealing the hiding place of his buried treasure to any of his family and it had lain there ever since. When Charlie awoke from his dream and told members of his family about it they laughed at him and thought nothing of it, until he did turn over an old stump with his plow and unearthed a pot of gold. His dream and the indian loomed up before him and true to the injunction of the redman, he took one $20.00 piece and buried the rest. The surprise and shock rather unsettled the boy's mind and he is now unable tell where it was that he buried the treasure, but from what he does say, there must have been about $4000.00. He has the $20.00 piece to show for his find, so the story goes.

JAMES THOMAS REPENTS.

The sensational robbery story of James Thomas, the Salem mail carrier had rather a sudden and equally as sensational ending last week when it became known that the money had been returned to the Salem Bank. The facts as best we can gather them is that Mr. Thomas confessed to Lacy Moore after the reputed hold up that he had yielded to the tempter and had secreted the money and had become sorry and did not want it and desired the help of his friends in getting the money to whom it belonged and told him where it was. Lacy went at once to Jeff Clement to ask Jeff what to do. If it had been a cow, or steer, or hog, he would have known; but money—in bags—and nearly a hundred pounds of it Lacy would not go about it unless Jeff said so. They soon got Pres Maxwell and Tom Cochran and confided the secret and it was soon agreed for all four to go post haste to the hiding place designated and if the money was there take it to the owners. The hiding place, a culvert, near the old Jeff LaRue homestead. Right on the public road the money was found intact, none of the seals were broken and it was taken quickly to the Salem Bank. Mr. Thomas was arrested that afternoon when he returned with the Salem mail but promptly gave bond in the sum of $600. His examining trial was set for Monday but he waived it and was bound over to the June term of the Circuit Court to await the action of the grand-jury.

H. C. Paris had the misfortune to get his leg broken Wednesday morning on the road to Fords Ferry about two miles north of town, by his mule slipping and falling on him. Drs. were hastily summoned and set the member and he is said to be resting very well.

Joe's Visit.

Joe at last reached the house—he had been there before. So pass'd on thro' the gate and walk'd up to the door; It was open'd, of course, by his dear Imogene, And a vision more lovely Turk never had seen.

"How are you this evening, my fair Imogene? You look well dear, apart from that writing machine," Joe observ'd, with a smile and a satisfied air, As he sat with legs cross'd, in a big parlor chair.

"Oh, I feel just delightful," replied Imogene, "Due in part, there's no doubt, to the writing machine. And you, Joe, look well, too—and yet it seem odd To see you away from your partner, the hod."

"Oh, that work just suits me—I scarce like to stop! For to carry up brick to the man at the top Is really pleasant—much more so, I ween, Than to always be pounding a writing machine."

"There's no nicer music, you 'toter' of brick, Than the writing machine's click-click-a-click; And besides," she continued, "just find, if you can, Any one that's more 'cute' than the Bald-Headed Man."

"So you see, therefore, Joe," still went on Imogene, "Just betwixt you and me—and the writing machine—I've found my life work—when my hair has grown gray I'll just still be a-punching and pounding away!"

Owing to lack of space we have been forced to leave out a part of this week's installment of "The Clodhopper and The Bald-Headed Man." A full installment of the story will be published next week.
